Every now and then we have a streak of light and warmth from the dark cloud of the rebellion, and as such we regard the reestablishment of an old Nashville firm of extensive experience in our city, under the mame of Webb, Cooke, & Co. It is good to have business men of such acknowledged character and experience locating among us. The stock of the new firm is fresh and varied. We looked over it yesterday, and were pleased to see that good taste had presided over the selection. We need not enumerate the varieties of calicoes, ginghams, prints, bareges, threads, hosiery, gloves, "notions," suspenders, handkerchiefs, buttons, alpaca lustres, Irish linens and towelling, printed jaconets, reps, corded poplins, lawns, Swiss muslins, Econais, Mozambiques, cloths, satinets, doeskins, ribbons, taffetas, velvets, tarletans, silks, and satins, for all that goes toward that wonderful and mysterious process regarded as "costume" for man or woman can be found at their store, on the north side of Main street, between Fourth and Fifth. If variety is the spice of life, it must of course be recognized as very potent in the dry good line, and therefore we regard Messrs. Webb, Cooke, & Co. as

SERIOUS DIFFICULTY BETWEEN SOLDIERS AND

CITIZENS.—A serious difficulty occurred at Lancaster, Ohio, on Saturday last, between some members of the 17th Ohio, and a father and son by the name of See, who kept adrinking saloon. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette gives the following version of the affair:

About nine o'clock some of the soldiers being in there drinking, one of them by the name of Little put his hand an the shoulder of young See and said: "George, I understand you have become a copperhead." This was followed by some ill-natured reply, and young See turning upon Little, the latter pushed him him away with his arm. Thereupon the elder See drew his revolver and shot the soldier through the heart. As his compades soldier through the heart. As his comrades rushed forward to catch the body of the murrushed forward to catch the body of the murdered Little, the old villain fired at them and mortally wounded one of them. This soldier has since died. This, then, was the act that fired the soldiers, and they armed themselves with the rapidity of lightning, and threatened the destruction of the town. They first sought to burn the saloen where their comrades were shot, but Col. Ward appealed to them so earnestly as to change their purpose. But while hewas speaking some of the men entered the building and completely gutted it, pouring the the citizens was intense, and a collision be-tween them and the soldiers was only pre-vented by the untiring efforts of Col. Ward and General Ewing, who happened to be pres-ent. The Major of the place zealously dogged ent. The Mayor of the place zealously dogged the steps of the former, but he made no effort to arrest the murderer and his son, and get them safely in jail. The soldiers made a vigorous search for the Sees, and about two relack Sunday morning their efforts were orous search for the Sees, and about two o'clock Sunday morning their efforts were partly rewarded, as they found young See just as he was escaping from the town, and rested him. They offered him no violence they reached the market house, when they assaulted him and beat him nearly to death. Colonel Ward hearing of this, threw himself among the infuriated men at the peril of his life, and rescued the victim and got him to a physician's house, where everything possible was done for him. But he was injured an hally a later hour, the soldiers, hearing he was not dead, surrounded the house with the intention dead, surrounded the house with the intention of dragging him forth and hanging him, but were prevented by Col. Ward. Word coming that Berne township had armed and were coming to drive out the soldiers, the latter armed themselves more thoroughly and took possession of the Court-house, which they barricaded. But Berne township did not venture, and thus was further bloodshed prevented.

General Rousseau's passes are valid as far only as Duck river. Governor Johnes passes only to such persons as come Numbers of females are passed to Chattanoogs, whose virtues lost scarcely entitle them to be classed under this respectable caption. Not all the women in Chattanooga are refugees from the Nashville—adventurous courtesans who seek a more favorable point at which to ply their avocation. Chattanooga is full of these shame-less Cyprians. Nebody informs on them. Detectives have other business to attend to, and are not particularly anxious to pry into this. And why should they? The women are petted having "hit the very forehead of old time" in their superb assortment. So regarding it, we most cordially commend it to the attention of purchasers.

And why should they? The women are petted and patronized; in difficulty they have friends, and they always have heavy purses. If prostitution continues as profitable as it now is, it will become necessary to legalize and license it here as at Nashville. THE AMNESTY OATH

However charitable the object of the President in issuing the proclamation offering pardon to such as would subscribe to the oath profiered, the results will be anything but satisfactory. These men, who seek protection from these roving bands, are at heart not disposed either to assist in pursuing and disbanding them, or in doing anything that would advance the interests of the government. in doing advining that would advance the interests of the government, unless such assistance enhances their own. They are enemies that the fortunes of war have left within our lines. They are desirous of conforming our lines. They are desirons of conforming to anything that will insure them protection, and guarantee a home. Their sympathies are with the rebellion, and all the logic, and battles, and privations, and poverty, and oaths (that do not appease hunger) will avail no more to change their hearts than will the lashings of sea and ocean to dissolve Gibraltar. Their enmity is as deep-rooted as the hatred the Indian bears the white man. The present will transmit it to the generation to come. will transmit it to the generation to come. Children will draw it from the breasts of mothers, and be taught to lisp their fathers' hatred, even as Hannibal at the family after. Subjugation will not eradicate it. It is in the blood. It courses and rankles there, and though it permeates in silence and there, and though it permeates in silence and hides itself from the inquisitive gaze of foes, it will burn on and on as does the unquenchable animosity to the English that only smoulders in Irish hearts. It is popular I find among scribblers, to dish up for readers every little idiosyncrasy and anecdote that may belong to the characters of prominent men, or serve to illustrate them the attentions of Lieut. Already the rebel journals are complaining of lack of husbandmen. They are warned by the "Atlanta Intelligencer," that, unless the thousands of idlers that fill the drinking salpons, and cumber the streets with their saloons, and cumber the streets with their presence, and the tens of thousands of indigent and suffering refugees, go to tilling the ground, when garnered to support the people through

The energies of the Southern people are being taxed to their utmost now, in truth. The desperation that trying extremities infuse into a proud, defiant people, is at least renerving and energizing, but the tramp of myriad foes is sounding clearer and nearer as minutes pass. POST COMMANDANT OF NASHVILLE. An effort, I am informed, is being made to bave Mej. Gen. Hartsuff, who is disabled by wounds for field service, placed in command of the post of Nashville. For high intellectual ability and experience as a soldier, a better selection could not be made. Gen. Hartsuff is an eld and tried commander. He has been remarkably unfortunate, as far as persona damage is concerned, in almost every engage-ment he has passed through. His body has been riddled like a sieve by bullets, and he suffered the most exeruciating pains and tor-tures. His miraculous recovery from wounds received in the Florida war is known to all who have read its history. Personal inconvenience and pain, his firm, unyielding will has nience and pain, his firm, unyielding will has made subordinate to his duties and interest as a commander. Though suffering intensely from a terrible wound when Burnside crossed the mountains into East Tennessee he did not remain behind, but when the troops set out he was found on his horse and at his post. Of the two latter, it is sufficient to remark that they have been often tried, that their men know them, and that they do not command a dissatisfied man, nor a man who is not willing to follow them and die for them. DECROW'S POINT, TEXAS, Feb. 7. The Texas campaign seems to be at an end. I do not think it has accomplished all it was intended that it should; but for over two months it has been at a stand still, and there are no indications that the "masterly inactivi-ty" of our forces in Texas is to be disturbed. Half the coast and an equal share of the harbors are in our possession. We held the Rio Grande, Brazos de Santiago, Aransis Pass, Grande, Brezos de Sandiago, Aransas Fass, and Pass Cavalo, while the enemy still have Velasco, San Louis Inlet, Galveston, and Sabine Pass. General Kansom's brigade commanders are Colonel Landrum, of the 19th Kentucky, and Colonel Rust, of the 13th Illinois. Of the latter and his services I know but little, but everybody outside of Washington City knows that the eminent services of Colonel Landrum have long since entitled him to a star. Kentucky has no better man in the field. That his claims to promotion have not not been recognized at Washington without the ging is a shame to the administration. In the way of re-enlisting, there has not leen so much done in this division as in the let. I believe there are but two regiments in his division that are qualified to come into be veteran arrangement. These are the 19th Kentucky and 48th Ohio. The former was in Kentucky and 48th Ohio. The former was a fair way to re-enlist when the bounty was cut off in December. This put a stop to it, and, although the time for paying the bounty was afterward extended, the effort has not been renewed. In fact, no official notice of the extension of the time has been received here. The orders issued from the War Department are chiefly for the benefit of the Army of the Potomac, and are either not aplicable to the other troops or are not received y them until they are out of date. That the 8th Ohio has not re-enlisted is no great wontain who should command it now. It has no Colonel and no Major. The status of Lieutenant-Colonel Parker is so complicated that I think no one understands it. He has gone to Washington to see if any one there does. The other Lieutenant-Colonel is absent, and Captain Berring is in commend of the raci

So far as this remark indicates that the Colonel would wink at anything like marauding, those who know him give it no credit, but he certainly does not over-estimate the good will of his men toward their commander. The troops here are having a very quiet and deasant time. The weather is very fine. It relieve it is considered to be spring—at least, regetation has commenced. There is a revival in progress here, as well as at Indianola; but here it is not of temperance, but of religion. It is quite extensive, and in full progress. We make the following extracts: "OFFICE OF THE CHIEF COMMISSARY, Quincy, FLA., Nov. 2, 1863. "It has been the subject of anxious consideration how I could, without injury to our cause, expose to the people throughout the State the present perilous condition of our army. To do this through the public press would point out our source of danger to our enemies. To see each one in person, or even a sufficient number to effect the object contemplated, is impossible; yet the necessity of general and immediate action is imperative to save our army, and with it our cause from disaster.

"The following extracts, from official letters in my possission, do but partially represent the present condition of the armies of Generals Bragg and Beauregard, and their gloomy prospect for future supplies. Major J. F. Cumming, who supplies Gen. Bragg's it is absolutely and vitally important that all the cattle that can possibly be brought here shall be brought as promptly as possible. And again, on the 5th of October, he says: I cannot too strongly urge upon you the necessity, yes, the urgent necessity of sending forward cattle prountly. In regard sending forward cattle promptly. In regard to bacon, the stock is about exhausted—hence beef is our only hope.' And on the 20th of October he wrote: 'The army is to day on "Major Guerin, Chief Commissary of South importance at this time that the troops here should be subsisted.' Again he says: 'As it is, our situation is full of danger, from want of meat, and extraordinary efforts are required to prevent disaster.' And on the 9th quired to prevent disaster.' And on the 9th of October he says: 'We have now 40,000 troops and laborers to subsist. The supply of bacon on hand in the city is 20,000 pounds, and the cattle furnished by this State is not one-tenth of what is required. My anxieties and apprehensions, you may suppose, are Sreatly excited.' "Major Millen, of Savannah, on October 19th, says: I assure you, Major, that the stock of bacon and beef for the armies of the Confederate States is now exhausted, and we must depend entirely upon what we may gather weekly. Starvation stares the army in the face—the handwriting is on the wall. On October 26 he says: 'From the best information I have, the resources of food (meat) of both the Tennessee and Virginia armies are exhausted. This remark now applies with equal force to South Carolina and Georgia, and the army west hope-first. and the army must henceforth depend upo the energy of the purchasing Commissarie through their daily or weekly collections.

The circular then continues:
"You know the resources of Tennessee are lost to us; the hog cholera and other causes have cut short the prospect in Georgia and other States. It is ascertained that the last year's crop of bacon is about exhausted, and it is certain that the crop of this will be much shorter than that of last year. Now two large armies look almost solely to Florida to supply one entire article of subsistence. The entire surplus of this year's crop of bacon throughout the Confederacy, even when husbanded with the utmost economy, will be inadequate to the demands of the Govern; ment. This makes it the duty of every man to economize as much as possible, to sell not a pound to any one else whilst there is any danger of our army suffering, and to pledge at schedule rates his entire surplus-bacon, beef, sugar, and sirup-to the Government. our people can be brought to this point.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26. 1864.

THE WHEAT CROP .- Our farming friends in this vicinity tell us that the cold weather about the holidays destroyed the wheat to such an extent that the crops will not yield the seed which was sown. We are anxious to obtain reliable information as to the extent of this calamity, and we therefore request our agriculturists to send us the result of their personal experience, and we will take it as an especial favor if they will permit us to authenticate their statements by publishing their letters with their signatures. We know, from sources entitled to the highest credit, that serious apprehensions are entertained as to an entire failure of the wheat in our immediate neighborhood, and next to the direct, unfortunate results of such a state of affairs, will be the efforts of mercenary speculators to increase the prices of breadstuffs. We are anxious to protect the people from their operations, and this can be best done by reliable information from all parts of the country, and we desire to impress upon our farmers the imperative necessity of their personal attention to our request,

The River Improvement Convention after two days session in our city, adjourned yesset forth the importance of the measure, and the claims of the Ohio basin to the favorable consideration of Congress. While the seamation from the general treasury, while the canal at Sault Ste. Marie has been thus built, and the Delta of the Mississippi rendered navigable, and the Chesapeake and Delaware I OUKSVIIII, EXY. bays have been under the fostering care of the country, the commerce of the Ohio River has been taxed to support the canal around our Falls. This could be avoided if all the States interested would make a unanimous demand; unity of interest should induce unity of action, and the want of that unity has up to this time been a greater obstruction to the Ohio river than the falls below our city. This convention is a movement in the right direction; but will the delegates work after they have returned to their homes? It is certain that resolutions can accomplish nothing. Memorials to Congress will be read and then slumber in pigeon holes, with the accumulating dust of years as their covering. This convention is but the "Attention!" which should awaken every river. city and town and every village on its tributaries, and everybody should volunteer for the campaign and be prepared to fall into ranks for active service. If the Executive Committee ordered to be appointed will work with zeal they can accomplish much. It will be seen that all the Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, and municipal authorities interested, are requested to lend their co-operative aid to the work of the convention. To do this effectually, let the preamble and resolutions be printed. signed and torwarded to Congress with miltions of signatures, and let it be distinctly understood at Washington that the Ohio Val ley is asking for a recognition of her long dehave any further prograstination. The St. Louis Republican of the 14th instant had the following notice of a primary meeting held in St. Louis to appoint delegates to the radical convention which met here a few days ago:

THE JACOBIN CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLE. prominent actor in the affair advised the degates, one and all of them, to go to Louisarmed, assigning as a reason that he just been there, and that the citizens d not permit such an assemblage. The people of Louisville are too hos-le, and too much inclined to see and ake themselves merry over such ridiculous gatherings, to interpose any objection to this convention. But it will be a pretty sight to some of this saintly set going into Louis-le with six-shooters in their belts, and eedings with prayer. As it seems to be con-eded, also, that niggers may be there as elegates, it will be a new feature in this age civilization, to find them armed to the eth and ready for the fray. By all means, t the delegates go armed. The citizens of oursville will enjoy the sensation. By all means, did not attend the convention; though, if we may judge from the suggestion of one of the leading members of the body, there is a fair probability that the next convention. probability that the next convention will be groes. The white delegates from Missouri, however, were generally on hand, but wheth by or net they came armed in accordance with the control of the contr er or not they came armed, in accordance with the advice of the hero of the meeting at Turners' Hall, we are unable to say. If the delegates in reneral come armed, their hearts must have failed them after they got here, for, instead of depending upon themselves for protection, they nmediately called in a guard of national soldiers, that attended as we are informed throughout the sittings of the convention Possibly, however, the delegates took this precaution in the spirit which prompted Mac beth to resolve upon the murder of Macduff, desiring to

And take a bond of fate, so that they might be able to And sleep in spite of thunder.

Be this as it may, the incident is certainly a very curious illustration of that popular favor in Kentucky of which the radicals are accustomed to boast. And in this relation we cannot forbear to adduce the still more significant have publicly appealed to the radicals of the North for pecuniary aid in the work of starting a radical newspaper here. Furthermore. months and upwards, and the newspaper is not started yet, a result which seems to imply, that, while home contributions are scarce, foreign contributions are not plentiful. Probably the Northern Hercules thinks the Kentucky petitioner should first put his own shoulder to the wheel. At all events the fact is as we have

We do not propose to dwell on these somewhat remarkable indications; but, in view of them, we respectfully submit to the radicals that their customary boasting of popular favor in Kentucky

More honored in the breach, than the observance.

When they can hold a convention in Kentucky without feeling the necessity of armed men to protect the assembly from the popular indignation, and can establish a single newspaper in the State without invoking the aid of the Northern abolitionists, it will be quite time enough for them to boast of the favor of Kentuckians. Until then at least the vaunt will prove a little too broad to be relished by any except the good-humored conservatives.

That Kentucky loyalty is not mere pulpthat it has substance and something of a back-bone, we have never doubted. But it yet puz-zles us whether it be fish, flesh, or fowl.

Messrs. Thomas Sherlock, of Cincinnati, and J. G. Blackford, of Parkersburg, were appointed vice-Presidents, and Hamilton Smith, jr., of Cannellton, as Assistant Secretary. Mr. Thruston, of Pittsburg, from the delect Committee, appointed yesterday, made report, and said that the importance of the abject was such as to demand a more extended report than time would allow to be made iated. He showed the large aggregate opulation interested in the improvement emplated, and from the North and South, and their way to the obsoling the one. The national aspect of the work is complete, and all experience has shown that water communication cannot be excelled in its facilities for heavy transportation. The future of the country, as well as its present necessity, demands that the Ohio river should be an uninterpretate extern of that corpusers which will errupted artery of that commerce which wi crease with years, and with the bless 'ully established. He invoked legislative aid to the work, and hoped it would be promptly given. Our country is the home of the world, and we combine within ourselves the essings of every climate, while the fertility our soil and the boundless extent of our of our soil and the boundless extent of our territory can never be exhausted as the habitation of the large number of immigrants who are seeking our shores. We can compate with the industry of all European countries, and the vast basins, washed by the Ohio and its confluents, extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Allegheny, will furnish homes for the congruings and is the hardinger of a future generations, and is the harbinger of a national prosperity which must be unbound ed, and the anticipation of which should lead us to prepare the best channels and routes for e commerce which will increase every year. et the people of the Mississippi basin demand as a right that Congress should open the navigation of the Ohio. The plan is of minor importance; the triumphs of engineering are the ald be commenced upon any plan which not been carefully devised, and would omplish the end in view. The resolutions which he submitted were as follows: which he submitted were as follows:

Whereas, the Ohio River, having its source in the interior of the State of Pounsylvania and passing in ts course through and along the territory of the states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Kentacky and Illinois, for a distance of one thousand niles, is a great natural chanuel for the distriuion, in response to the daily demands of life and the interchanges of commerce, of the products of nearly very state of the Union.

And, whereas, the frequent interruption to the navgation of the Ohio from an insufficient depth of water or the transportation of its commerce, is a great and innual less to the population of the Ohio basin directy; and the nation indirectly; a loss to be avoided by

Mr. J. C. Butler, of Cincinnati, offered the Messrs. Butler, E. Needam, Thruston, and Wharton spoke at length upon the policy to be adopted. The general tenor of their remarks was, that the memorial to Congress should ask simply for an appropriation, and not embarrass the action by designating any particular plan. The Chicago Ship Canal is to be under the control of three Commissions to be appeared by the Secretary of War ers, to be appointed by the Secretary of War, but their plan must be approved by the Presi-dent of the United States before the work is tion to the great work, and to leave to the progress of engineering skill the future develent of a perfect plan to accomplish all that Mr. Butler was opposed to any connection of the Ohio River improvement with the Chicago local scheme of enlarging the Illinois canal, as Cincinnati had officially protested against any appropriation for the latter purse. The nationality of the Ohio River need not be connected with any system of loging for the benefit of a single State, and lling for the benefit of a single State, and, deed, of but a section of that State. Cincert is earnest in her advocacy of the important of the Ohio, but it is necessary to very careful that money may not be exneded in works which may prove valueless d become rather an impediment to the naviation. We have a sufficient depth of water account or nine months in the year and it. pressure to nine months in the year and it would be the height of folly to imperil these dvantages for the sake of experimenting to ecure the other three or five months.

Mr. Wharton did not look at the Illinois Canal scheme as useless, for it would en-able us to prepare for the defence of the Lakes, which we could not do now under our treaties with Great Britain, while she, with the Welland Ganal, and the St. Lawrence river, could send her whole navy, in case of necessity, within our waters. He did not doubt that schemers would be found who would take advantage of the nation's liberality; but that was no reason why it should meet disfavor. He was opposed to the resolution of Mr. But-He was opposed to the resolution of Mr. Butler, as it places us in the position of dictating to Congress. Mr. Butler said it was simply precautionary in order to obtain the cordial assent of all who were interested in the improvement. Mr. Sparks, of Jeffersonville, said we should act with courtesy, and yet with determination, in letting our members of Congress know that we were in earnest in our armitication. The resolution provides no eur application. The resolution provides no plan for any united action after the Boards and municipalities have acted upon the memorial of the convention. How are we to know what action those bodies have taken, and how can we get subsequent and final action? Mr. Thruston offered the following as a substi-tute for the resolution of Mr. Butler:

ssrs. Needham, Wharton, Thruston, But r, and Sherlock spoke on this subject, which seemed to us was not generally understood, s the proposed resolution did not negative or ersede the action of the convention, but might go on and memorialize Congress. opinion arrived at, for finally or their action and approval" 'for their co operative aid in orwarding them to their representatives in congress should our action meet the approval On motion of Mr. Wharton the preamble and resolutions adopted, were ordered to be accepted as the memorial of this convention to Congress. IN THE FIELD, 2 MILES EAST OF RINGGOLD, February 23, 10 P. M. General Palmer, with the 14th army corps, road toward Tunnel Hill, the enemy retired, skirmishing lightly until he reached a wooded eminence near Baxter's, five miles from Ringgeld. A portion of the 39th here dismounted and moved toward and occupied a crest under a severe fire. This position was held until ten minutes before 3 o'clock, when Carlin's brigade of infantry came up and relieved the cavalry. An advance was ordered, when the enemy rapidly gave way.

Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, moved to take up the House bill to revive the grade of Lieutenant-General as returned from the Senate with an amendment striking out the Senate with an amendment striking out the recommendation that Grant be appointed to that position. He said that his object was to disagree to the Senate amendment in order that a committee of conference might be asked.

Mr. Fink objected.
The House then resumed the consideration of a bill to establish a bureau for freedmen.
Mr. Davis, of Maryland, defended the validity of the late Maryland elections, and spoke of the progress of emancipation there, saying they were under small obligations to President Lincoln for what had been done. He advocated the amendment to the constitution resolutely declaring, as a condition preion resolutely declaring, as a condition pre-edent of readmission into the Union, that lavery be forever abolished in the Southern states. The address of the rebel Congress to the people of the Confederate States is published, and it is very lengthy. It says the course of the Federal government has proved that it did desire peace, and would not consent to it on any terms that we could possibly conclude. In proof of this, we refer to the repeated rejection of all terms of conclusion and core. jection of all terms of conciliation and com-promise, to their recent contemptuous, and refusal to receive the Vice-President, who less than a garrison for Ohattanoogo, started yesterday for Tunnel Hill.

General King's brigade entered Ringgold last night', driving the enemy's cavalry, in small force, through the Gap. He occupied the ridge on either side, picketed and held the front. Adjutant Ayres, of the 19th regulars, venturing too far beyond the lines, was captured yesterday morning by the enemy.

General R. W. Johnson, with Carille's brigade, and the 19th Hilnois, from King's brigade, and the 19th Hilnois, from King's brigade, held the infantry advance this morning on the march. Colonel Harrison's 47th Indiana mounted infantry, called the 88th Indiana cavalry, held the advance proper of the expedition.

Col. Harrison left Tyner's Station yesterday and came through Parker's Gap, engaging and driving the enemy and joining the main force at Ringgold. SOUTHERN ACCOUNTS OF SHERMAN'S EX-PEDITION-PARTICULARS FROM THE MIS-SISSIPPI PAPERS-THE LATE SOUTHERN TELEGRAMS-TERATMENT OF PRISONERS AT RICHMOND-CIRCULAR TO GEORGIA WO-MEN. [From the Macon (Ga.) Daily Confederate, Peb. 14.]

THE SITUATION IN MISSISSIPPI. The news from Mississippi is of the highest importance. It was thought by many that the enemy would stop at Jackson and make it a permanent camp. But this idea was ab-surd, taken in connection with the fact that they were forty-two thousand strong. Our news this morning is that they have crossed Pearl River (upon which Jackson is situated), and that they are advancing along the line of the Southern Railroad, in the direction of

The plain truth about this whole matter is, that this expedition has started out to capture Mobile. It may first strike the Tombigbee at Demopolis, and capture Selma and Montgomery, but the final point is the Gulf City. Our aimy under General Polk, confronting the enemy, is very small. It does not hardly number one-half the enemy's force. General Polk, if he fights them at all outside of the breastworks around Mobile, will toll them as far towards Meridian as possible. Perhaps he will deliver battle on the Chunky River, an important stream crossing the railroad an important stream crossing the railroad east of Brandon.

Our force is too weak to risk a pitched battle in the open field with much prospect for success. If we can get the advantage in ground, a general battle may take place. But our hope seems to be chiefly in massing the cavalry of Lee, Forrest, and Chalmers, and effectually cutting the enemy's communica-tion with the base of his supplies. The country through which he will move is one of the most sterile and unproductive in the South, affording scarcely anything upon which to subsist an army of the magnitude of that of Gen. Sherman. No telegraphic despatches for the press are allowed over the wires, and consequently we are forced to rely upon our excellent Western contemporaries for news.

[From the Meridian Clarion, 16th.] SITUATION IN MISSISSIPPI-THE ENEMY ADVANC-ING EAST OF JACKSON--THEIR FORCE 42,000-A BATTLE IMMINENT.

We have just returned from the front. The and Sunday night found them at Spear's Cut. Monday evening they reached the vicinity of Morton, where the advance of both armies skirmished sharply for a few minutes. Our army was formed in line of battle about one mile east of Morton, but the enemy made no advance up to the time our army withdrew, which was during the early part of Monday

The enemy's force is ascertained to consist of 30,000 infantry, 12,000 cavalry, and 62 pieces of artillery. Its destination is, undoubtedly, Mobile, while a part may, if not checked, attempt to break up our railroad communication, which, if successful, will

Of the steps taken to counteract the plans of the enemy, it is not for us to speak. We have a calm confidence in Gen. Polk, and are willing to trust him and his able Generals in the important moves now being made. We he will no, sacrifice his little army unnecessarily, but wherever and whenever a blow can be struck at the advancing forces it will be promptly given. Our people may rest assured that all will be done the forces in this department are capable of performing, and if the fortunes of the day require our army to fall back, it must be done, and we must bring forth a spirit of resignation to accept cheer-fully our lot. No misfortune here will alter the final triumph of our arms and the inde-pendence of the South. Each man for himself must use his own judgment in the course to be pursued on the line of the enemy's

Gen. Lee returned to Jackson on Sunday night, and there is no doubt ere this he is on the wing east of Pearl River. (From the Meridian (Miss.) Clarion, 10th.)

MORE PRISONERS. Eight Yankee prisoners, captured west of Pearl River, arrived here yesterday. The and T. Hitch, 35th New Jersey; E. H. Lancaster, 13th Tennessee cavalry; S. M. House, 58th Illinois; J. N. Closs, 35th New Jersey; R. Vincent, 178th New York; L. T. Chand-

Leaving Jackson on one of the trains I I came through this place. This morning I found Gen. Polk at church.

The above we clip from the army correspondence of the Mobile Evening News, "Clint." Gen. Polk, we are free to say, is perfectly willing to take whatever blame may be attached to any movements made by him since placed in the command of this department. He asks no praise, but will do his duty as becomes a Christian soldier and a gentleman. We would not have noticed the paragraph if its tone had not been to the paragraph if its tone had not been to create a feeling of dissatisfaction with the General who commanded this department at a time when every effort should be made, by one and all, to have unity and concord.

Gen. Polk will never forget to perform his duty to his God and his country, and we-are sorry that the beautiful discourse of Bishop Green, on last Sabbath, had not put into the heart of "Clint" a charitable sense of feeling to all rather than a spirit of fault-finding, to all, rather than a spirit of fault-finding, which was alike uncalled for and out of

of the year, is not fordable, and can be crossed only with bridges. Here, it is likely, our army will take position and offer battle to the enemy, with all the chances in our If this advance of Sherman on Meridian is an isolated movement, it is the most fool-hardy and absurdly-adventurous undertaking of the present war, and the probabilities are that his army will be destroyed. If, on the other hand, it is part of a combined campaign, embracing an advance from Huntsville southward, there is danger in it, for wille southward, there is danger in it, for which it behooves our military authorities to make ample provision. Grant, who commands all the military operations of the Southwest, is the most enterprising and reckless campaigner the war has developed, and it is not improbable that he has resolved to abandon his movement on Atlanta, and essay an advance in the direction of the Alabama River, to meet the column marching from Mississippi. While a dangerous programme it is possible, and if successful would inflict incalculable damage to our cause. Thanks it is possible, and if successful would inflict incalculable damage to our cause. Thanks to Providence, a wary commander sits in his front, watching with eagle-eye all his movements on the military chess board, prepared to checkmate him on his first bad play. While Johnston is at Dalton, no step of Grant's escapes him, and he has, doubtless, already provided for the very contingency we have just indicated.

[From the Selma Mississippian, 10th.] Our accounts from Morton, though meagre, are quite cheering. The advance of the enemy from Jackson is not deemed ominous by any means; on the contrary, it is regarded as a highly favorable feature of the situation.

The force of the enemy is variously estimated at from 25,000 to 40,000. The best advices we have place his force at 35,000. It was thought in Meridian yesterday morning that a battle was pending either at Morton or Pelehatchie. If a battle is fought at either place, we have the utmost confidence that its results will be the almost total annihilation of the enemy. We ardently hope that such will be the finale of McPherson's advance, and that our friends in Mississippi will be effectually relieved of the plundering thieves of Lincolndom.

THIS HOUSE HAS JUST BEEN REFITTED the accommodation of the travelling public fectually relieved of the plundering thieves of Lincolndom.

[From the Montgomery Mail, February 13.] It appears that the enemy, on arriving at Morton, stole a march on General Polk and moved off in the direction of Mobile. Findmoved off in the direction of Mobile. Finding himself in this position, General Polk sent a portion of his troops to reinforce the garrison at that point, and with the residue retired to Meridian. The cavalry, including the combined commands of Gens. Lee and Forrest, are reported at last accounts in possession of Jackson and hovering on the enemy's rear. This statement seems almost investible and retiries combed for health. credible, and yet it is vouched for by reliable gentlemen who left Meridian on Thursday morning, and is confirmed by the note of General Maury to the Editor of the Mobil. Register, which will be found in another

ANOTHER REBEL RAID-A Bridal Party Stopped and Plundered.—The following extract from a private le'ter received in New York gives the particulars of another rebel performance in the vicinity of Winchester: "MARTINSBURG, Feb. 6, 1861.

"Yesterday was another high old day in our old home (Winchester). A young man named Kemp, from Ohio, went up there to take unto himself a wife, and was married on Thursday night to Miss Bettie Ginn, and on Friday morning as the bridal party, consisting of over a dozen ladies and gentlemen, in vehicles, were leaving, a party of rehels overteek them en the top of Fort Hill (on the edge of the town) and made the groom get out of the vehicle, and took from him a pocket pistol and shirt, and searched his baggage, taking some other articles, and told him to go on. "They had not gone more than a fourth of enemy is steadily advancing, and policy thus far has prompted us to retire before him. Saturday they crossed Pearl River from Jackson, They told him that Major Gilmore (a distinct of the control of the guished Baltimore plug ugly of yore) wanted to see him at a house on the railroad, about a fourth of a mile distant, and some of them conducted him there, where he found three robbers with their carbines pointed at him, who ordered him to take off his clothes, which refused to do, when they threatened to shoot him if he did not give up his money and his watch, and he was obliged to disgorga about $200 in greenbacks and his gold watch, after which they directed him to go on, and he rejoined the party, which arrived here about eleven o'clock."

Just as the new packet Mississippi landed at Memphis, on Friday last, smoke was discovered issuing from one of her state-rooms, which was unoccupied. The key to the room was immediately searched for, but was nowhere to be found. It became necessary to break in the door, which being done, daying room the lower flames were discovered arising from the lower berth, evidently having been kindled but a few moments. This was soon subdued, and without great injury to the room. The mattress, being hair instead of cotton, doubtless was very advantageous in retarding the flames. Immediately after this occurrence, Captain Osborn, commanding the boat, placed in every stateroom a bucket filled with water, REMARKABLE HOLD ON LIFE. - Major Geo. N. Lewis, of the 12th regiment, is in town. His remarkable wound promises to heal, and his life will be saved. Not one man in ten thousand would survive such a wound. It was a canister shot, weighing about four ounces, and made a hole clear through him, shattering his collar bone and shoulder blade, and splintering his spine. It did not displace the vertebræ, which would probably have ended his life suddenly, but it has left a hole through him, and it is said that even now a pieces of bone have been taken out.

and T. Hitch, 35th New Jersey; E. H. Lancaster, 13th Tennessee cavalry; S. M. House, 58th Illinois; J. N. Closs, 35th New Jersey; R. Vincent, 178th New York; L. T. Chandler, 4th Iowa cavalry; and G. H. Todd, 32d Iowa cavalry.

Whatever blame or praise attached to the affair properly rests with Gen. Polk. The advance of the Federals was known and well known, and their programme ought to have been known in ample time to have prevented it, or have massed a sufficient force to have given battle with a reasonable chance of success.

Do you want something to strengthen you? Do you want a good appetite? Do you want to build up your constitution? Do you want to feel well? De you want to get rid of nervousness? Do you want energy? Do you want to sleep well?

If you do, use Hoofiand's German Bitters. From Rev. J. Newton Rrown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Enowledge, Encyclopedia of Religious Enowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in genéral, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of Es sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I de this more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try
